You are some of the biggest champions in our industry. We thank you for all of your hard work and continued support.

But there's still work to be done. EPA just released their proposed rule for E15 year-round, and we want everyone to know we strongly support EPA lifting the outdated restrictions holding back biofuels before this summer's driving season.

Your voice is important, and we encourage you to share the following posts via your social channels. Together, we need to get this over the finish line once and for all!
